

DIAMOND RING, HUMAN BONES, FOUND IN DAM WORK

"LOS ANGELES" TODAY BECAME AN AMERICAN

"Americanization" of ZR-3 Completed by Mrs. Coolidge

Washington, Nov. 25.—Americanization of the giant dirigible ZR-3 was completed today in a setting symbolic of the peaceful ways she is to follow. The flutter of white pigeons released by the hand of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and the rush aloft of a myriad of bright toy balloons were the chosen outward signs of the big cruiser's re-christening as the American ship "Los Angeles." All the high officials of the government and many envoys from other lands gathered at Bolling Field for the ceremony.

Only a hint of the military was permitted to enter into the exercises, shearing away the mystical "ZR" designation so reminiscent of the war. The martial touch was confined to a national salute of twenty-one guns from a nearby naval battery and the playing of the Star Spangled Banner by a navy band.

Duties Uncertain
The Los Angeles is designed for non-military purposes only; but her precise duties remain to be determined, and she remains for the time being in the keeping of the navy which received her from her German builders after her flight across the Atlantic.

Riding the air for the first time with an American crew, the glistening flyer was brought to Washington from Lakehurst under perfect behavior. She arrived over the city at 12:30 p. m. and before descending for the christening circled gracefully above the White House, the capitol and the towering Washington monument.

Business in the government departments virtually stopped as cabinet officials, senators and thousands in the humbler walks of public service craned their necks for a look at the nation's new monster of the air. Navy officers watched her performance with the greatest interest because it was her first trial on this side of the Atlantic.

300 Men To Land Her
Three hundred men were formed on Bolling Field to land the ship when she began hovering overhead, they included detachments of sailors and marines from the presidential yacht Mayflower and of men from the naval air station, in service uniform. Grouped about the field were 1,500 automobiles, the limit of capacity. A large space was set aside for those who trudged the distance to get a glimpse of the ceremonies.

In contrast to previous occasions when famous craft or flyers came over, the air today, except for two photographic planes, was free. The navy had requested that no machines go up while the Los Angeles was overhead.

The actual christening ceremonies, as planned at the navy department were brief. The name Los Angeles and the insignia had been placed on the ship at Lakehurst and only the time-honored custom remained to be carried out.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Lakehurst, N. J., Nov. 25.—The German-built dirigible ZR-3 took the air at 9:05 a. m. at the naval air station today and headed southwest for Bolling Field, Washington, where she will be christened "Los Angeles" by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge this afternoon.

Throngs were expected to be at the field to view the huge craft upon its arrival. Immediately after the ZR-3 is landed, the christening will take place. At the moment Mrs. Coolidge releases pigeons the navy yard battery will fire a national salute of 21 guns and the navy band will play the Star Spangled Banner.

The big craft made a easy take-off with four of her five motors whirling as she headed into a 25 mile southwest wind. The fifth was set going as the ship rose and soon the ZR-3 was fading away in the haze to the southwest. Commander Klein's parting word was that he would hustle along to his destination, hoping to arrive there in time to loaf around over Washington before the ceremonies. He expects to return here by 9 o'clock to night.

Witness Says Mrs. Sheatsley Was Sane

SISTER OF MR. HARDING TO BE GOVT. WITNESS

To Give Testimony in Trial of Charles R. Forbes

Chicago, Nov. 25.—(By the Associated Press).—Defense counsel today resumed examination of the twelve witnesses tentatively accepted by the government attorneys in the trial of Charles R. Forbes, former head of the Veterans Bureau and J. W. Thompson, contractor, of St. Louis and Chicago, charged with defrauding the United States government.

Two of the jurors, answering a question by Judge George H. Carpenter, said they had sons or relatives wounded in the World War and a third veteran said he was a World War veteran, but was not wounded during his 18 months service in France. The defense was allowed ten challenges and the government.

Mrs. Heber Votaw of Washington, sister of the late President Harding, was disclosed as one of the chief government witnesses when defense counsel obtained a ruling permitting them to examine the list of three score prosecution witnesses. Mrs. Votaw, during Forbes administration, was connected with the Veterans' Bureau in vocational rehabilitation work.

Decision to try the defendants on the charge of defrauding instead of a second count in the indictment charging conspiracy to bribe a federal officer in the awarding of government hospital contracts came after long argument on a prosecution motion to consolidate the charges. The defense contended it had a long list of witnesses to summon from the Pacific coast to testify in the hearing of the bribery charge.

FEDERAL, STATE AUTHORITIES IN KORETZ SQUABBLE

Each Insists Right to Try Swindler First When Returned

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 25.—Federal and state attorneys today claimed first right to prosecute Leo Koretz, swindler, due to leave for Chicago late today from Halifax, N. S., where he was arrested Sunday.

John S. Sbarbaro, assistant state's attorney who obtained the arrest on a state charge of operating a confidence game, notified his superiors that legal delays to the removal of Koretz have been brushed aside and he will be brought back on the first train after necessary papers have been received today from the Dominion government at Ottawa.

Meanwhile the federal authorities took steps to have the prisoner given into their hands immediately on his arrival here to answer to a federal indictment charging use of mails to defraud, which has been pending since Koretz disappeared last December.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, said he would not willingly accede to any such demands.

"If Koretz were indicted and tried separately for all his frauds we should be able to sentence him to a thousand years in jail," the state's attorney said. "It will be time enough for the federal men to come forward when we are through with Koretz."

Under Heavy Guard
Koretz was reported to under heavy guard at Halifax to prevent any attempt at suicide. He is anxious to return to Chicago.

The master swindler may have prepared for another escape at the time of his arrest, the assistant prosecutor wired. Under his alias Lou Keyte, he had applied for passports to South America and may have planned to go north to Labrador in his yacht.

Proceedings have been instituted by Leo Davis, vice president of the Chicago Title & Trust Co., trustee of the Koretz estate, to establish claim to his property in Nova Scotia, held under the name of Lou Keyte. In addition to a $34,000 estate at Pinchurst, these included bank deposits of more than $100,000, bonds and securities, according to Mr. Sbarbaro's report.

Victims here of the Panama oil swindle, engineered by Koretz, expressed themselves as glad of his capture, but not vengeful.

FURNACE VICTIM MAY BE EXHUMED FOR EXAMINATION

Report of Fracture of Her Skull Made by Her Undertaker

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Columbus, O., Nov. 25.—Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley, wife of the pastor of Christ Evangelical Lutheran church of Bexley appeared to be in a normal frame of mind last Monday noon, County Prosecutor King was told at Lithopolis, a village south of here, today by Mrs. Gladys Redelph, wife of Rev. Redelphs of the village. Mrs. Redelphs visited the Sheatsley home last Monday and was one of the few persons who last saw the minister's wife alive.

Mr. King went to Lithopolis today hoping that Mrs. Redelph might have some information that would help him in solving the mystery of the finding of Mrs. Sheatsley's body in the furnace of her home last Monday evening. He announced at the conclusion of the interview, however, that nothing definite had developed.

Mrs. Redelphs said she delivered Christmas cards to Mrs. Sheatsley which the latter had ordered two weeks before.

Clarence, 16-year-old son, the first one, according to testimony, to find something strange in the furnace, and Mr. Sheatsley, Mrs. Redelphs told King, were examining the morning mail. Mrs. Sheatsley was in the kitchen preparing lunch. Alice, 13-year-old daughter, admitted her at the door.

Described Lunch Invitation
After a short talk with Mrs. Sheatsley, Mrs. Redelphs said she left, after having declined an invitation to remain for lunch. She said she did not know what Mrs. Sheatsley was getting for the meal.

Mr. King found at Lithopolis that Mr. Sheatsley, with president Otto Mees of Capital University here, and other men were hunting in that section the Saturday preceding the finding of Mrs. Sheatsley's body in the furnace and that they obtained several rabbits.

Mr. Sheatsley, in a statement at Canton today, said that reddish stains were found by Kink and his investigators in various places in the Sheatsley home yesterday, and which will be analyzed to determine whether or not they are human blood, asserted that the stains probably were made by him while dressing rabbits which he had obtained on the Saturday evening.

A pair of trousers also found yesterday and which contained stains, Mr. Sheatsley declared, were the ones that he had worn while on the hunting trip and probably, he said, had been marked by rabbit blood.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Columbus, O., Nov. 25.—Possibility that the body of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley may be exhumed was indicated here today following a conference late last night between county authorities and Edwin Abbott, an undertaker, who removed Mrs. Sheatsley's remains from the furnace.

Mr. Abbott told County Prosecutor King that a portion of Mrs. Sheatsley's skull was broken. He indicated, however, that this might have been caused by heat of the furnace.

Another find which Mr. King said he considers significant was an unturned fruit jar containing about half an ounce of fluid which Chemist Long said closely resembles human blood. The jar was found in the fruit storage room adjacent to the furnace room. Bits of tissue such as might have been torn from the body of a human were taken in several places, Mr. King announced. Red finger prints on a clothes-chute door in the cellar were found by Detective Carson.

"Probably Rabbit Blood"
Rev. Mr. Sheatsley, who with four children, is at Paris, Ohio, visiting relatives, in a telephone conversation said the stains were "probably rabbit blood," he having shot several while hunting on Saturday before the tragedy.

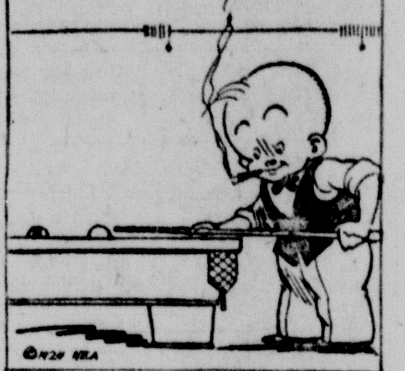

The minister when informed that a bottle of poisonous acid said to be missing, had been found yesterday. Rev. Mr. Sheatsley believed his wife committed suicide by casting herself into the furnace after becoming violently insane, he told Mr. King Wednesday.

Guinea Pigs Killed.
Chemist Long, seeking to verify his conclusion that Mrs. Sheatsley was dead when her body was placed in the furnace yesterday, placed two guinea pigs on hot coals in the fire vault. They scampered about on the coals for a minute and a half and then succumbed. Death was caused by carbon monoxide fumes, Mr. Long said he believed. He will analyze blood taken from their lungs in an effort to determine this positively.

Egyptian Problem None of League's Business?

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Nov. 25.—The content on by some foreign newspapers and publicists that the Egyptian trouble ought to be referred to the League of Nations is received with impatience in the quarters here which support the British government's act on following the assassination of the sirdar.

The Times, while holding that "no great good nor any particular harm" would be likely to result from reference of the matter to the League, strongly maintains that the British government is acting within its clear rights and that the British case is thoroughly sound in law, in fact, in the interests of Egypt and the world.

It further says that "the declaration of Egyptian independence was explicitly limited from the first by a sort of Monroe Doctrine safeguarding specific British interests such as that which safeguards American interests in Cuba."

By Associated Press Leased Wire

He is charged with first degree larceny, according to a telegram Judge Hazard received several days ago from William H. Munson, district attorney at Medina, N. Y. FUGITIVE NEGRO STILL AT LARGE; BOARD INACTIVE

But One Member of Co. Building Committee Calls at Jail

This afternoon at a late hour Charles Smith, colored, who escaped from the Lee county jail Sunday evening was still at large and several leads which had been followed up by Sheriff Raley and his deputies had proved fruitless. Early yesterday the sheriff was furnished with an address in Chicago where it was said that Smith had intended going to "hole-up" for about four days before renewing his escape. The sheriff went to Chicago yesterday and with members of the detective bureau visited the locality and no trace was found of the escaped prisoner.

Robert Bowsman was back in custody and appeared to regret his adventure of Sunday evening. He told the sheriff that he had no intention of leaving but was dared by other prisoners and followed Smith.

At noon today but one member of the county building committee had viewed the scene of the escape from the "issue paper jail" as it is termed by prisoners. It was said that Supervisor Joseph E. Whitish of Dixon visited the jail this morning and stated that temporary repairs would be made.

Investigation yesterday disclosed the fact that no less than three attempts to effect an opening in the west or male corridor had been undertaken. Around windows large pieces of cement have gradually been worked away and were found beneath a bath tub. A south window had been tampered with and two places in the ceiling, where prisoners could stand on heating pipes, the metal ceiling was torn loose and boards had been removed. It was through one of these that Smith and Bowsman effected their escape.

FAHY, MURRAY FOUND GUILTY OF MAIL THEFT

Jury Convicts Postal Inspector of Having Big Part

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 25.—Verdicts of guilty were returned early today by a federal jury against William J. Fahy, former postal inspector and James Murray, politician, on five charges of robbing the mails with a gun, five charges of mail robbery and one charge of conspiracy to rob the mails, each in connection with the $2,000,000 bond issue, mail train holdup, June 12.

Judge Cliffe said he would fix the punishment next Saturday morning, when he indicated, he also would hear motions of defense attorneys for a new trial. Meanwhile Fahy and Murray will be held in the county jail.

The jury deliberated over five hours before reaching an agreement which was announced at 1:45 a. m. Walter McComb, chauffeur for Murray in whose home Willie Newton, wounded robber was found, was acquitted. He was pictured as an innocent victim of circumstances.

The verdict climaxed over a week of trial in which six men, named as the actual robbers in the indictments, pleaded guilty and part of them testified for the prosecution against Fahy, Murray and McComb. In the closing arguments, government attorneys pictured Fahy as Judas, who accepted pay from the federal government to run down the robbers and kept them posted of operations against them. Defense counsel attacked the credibility of the government's witnesses.

MYSTERIES OF LONG AGO MAY BE PITIED

Deaths of Many Former Dixonites Under Old Dam are Recalled

A very unusual find was made of the south end of the dam which has started a great deal of comment. Mr. Knight, a foreman in the camp of the Price Brothers Construction Company, made the find about 11 o'clock this morning while directing operations on the construction of coffer dam where the old dam formerly stood.

A badly battered gold ring in which is a small diamond was found by Mr. Knight. The gold bears many scars which are thought to have been caused from being struck by bits of rock during blasting operations. A small piece of twine was tied around the ring, which designated that it was large for the owner's finger.

A few days ago near the same location, a small three-bladed pen which bore marks of having been in the river for many years, was found. The blades were rusted together and the material which formed the center covering was gone. Several bones were also found near the workmen said this afternoon that they did not believe them to be human bones. The diamond ring was turned over to the deputy sheriff to be examined by a jeweler. A three inch chain indented on the inside of the ring contained the following lettering: "1-13; 14; K; gold shell."

Harry Price, president of the construction company, stated this afternoon that he had viewed some of the bones that had been found near the apron of the dam formerly stood but that he would not state that they were those of a human being.

The report of the finding of the diamond ring and pocket knife at on spread rapidly and comment related to the drowning of Frank Ayres at Edward Goodrich in Rock River April 10, 1924 was recalled by many. The two young men were fishing from a boat in the sluiceway between the power house and the dam when the gates were opened. The body of Goodrich was recovered but after many days of labor the search for the body of Ayres was abandoned and traces of it was never found.

FORRESTONITE FOUND FATALLY WOUNDED SUN.

Whether Accident or Suicide Question Before Coroner

Whether August C. Korf, 53, wealthy farmer, residing south of Forreston, who was found semi-conscious in an orchard at his home Sunday morning with a 22 calibre rifle bullet in his head, attempted suicide or shot himself accidentally, was being investigated by Ogle county authorities today.

Physicians declared that there is no hope for the wounded man's recovery.

Went to Kill Dog

At 5 o'clock Sunday morning, Korf, who resides with his aged father, left the house with a rifle declaring his intention of killing a dog that had been molesting stock on the farm.

When he failed to return three hours later, the father asked for help in searching for him. The map was found in an orchard a short distance from the house.

Unable to Explain Shooting

Physicians located the bullet which had pierced the man's forehead and wedged itself in his skull. Although partially conscious, Korf was paralyzed and unable to make a statement.

During the night he lapsed into a state of coma and all hope of his recovery had been abandoned today.

Korf was a bachelor and resided alone with his father on the home premises.

Father Prostrated

Friends today were inclined to doubt the suicide theory, and the father insists that Korf was in his usual good spirits when he left the house.

The aged father was prostrated with grief and is also under the care of a physician.

HE'LL CREATE A SENSATION.

The exploits of Herr Flettner will shortly plastered all over the front pages of American newspapers, provided his present plans do not frizzle.

Flettner is a German, now living in Holland, who has invented a windship or sailing ship without any sails. That sounds like old Vaudeville. But wait a minute.

This windship isn't a wild dream. It has been demonstrated so satisfactorily, it is the identical sensation of Europe. Big steamship companies expect to use his invention on eighters, displacing coal.

Instead of sails, Flettner uses huge cylinders shaped like smokestacks. These revolve and, in some magical way not disclosed, harness the terrific power of air currents.

Berlin will erect similar cylinders to generate electricity for lighting streets and so on.

The possibilities of such an invention are almost beyond the imagination. Industry and transportation would be revolutionized and furnishing the power now obtained from coal.

It seems too good to be true. And possibly it is. But Flettner's invention has the marks of authenticity, both in its demonstrations to date and in the big corporations that have interested themselves in it.

Stupendous power is going to waste in the air. The force that blows your hat off, up-sots trees and turns the windmill could, properly harnessed, relieve man of a large part of his labor. Our generation has neglected the power of the winds, which for many centuries were enslaved to carry man's commerce on the seas.

A man in Cleveland, O., rigged up weather-vanes that generated sufficient electricity to light his home. This is a faint shadow of what could be done on a gigantic scale.

The power of the tides also awaits harnessing. So does the fierce heat of the sun. We have barely begun to use the power that nature has placed all about us.

But winds and tides and sun's heat will become our slaves in time—no doubt, long before scientists discover how to release the energy stored in the atom or finish drilling a hole into the earth to tap the interior heat.

THE ONCE-OVER HOSPITAL.

The public "clinic" or "diagnostic center," as high brow doctors term it, is the latest thing in health work. It is a place where any one can go and be told what, if anything, is wrong with him physically.

A large department of this sort is being established as the result of a generous gift to one of the Kansas City hospitals. It will have equipment and an adequate staff to examine patients for many kinds of ailments ordinarily requiring specialists and costing a great deal of money. Only a small fee is charged for the service. The new clinic is expected to serve not only Kansas City but neighboring cities and states.

It gives no treatment, but simply tells a patient what his condition is. Knowing that, he is free to go to any physician for treatment.

There are great advantages in the method.
Patients often suffer from unknown diseases, which affect them in ways having no apparent connection with the basic trouble. With the whole system examined and reported on, there is little chance of mistake. It is merely applying mechanical common sense to the human machine. The custom of looking over that machine regularly and thoroughly is growing; and as it grows, people enjoy better health and live longer.

UNDER-SEA PICTURES.

The sea, an American painter observes, covers two-thirds of the earth, and the land has been pretty thoroughly treated by landscape painters. So why not give a little attention to the sea? Not the surface—which has let itself already to millions of marine views which are mere variations of landscapes—but the depths of the sea, heretofore ignored.

So Z. H. Pritchard, the artist in question, goes down to the bottom of the sea and paints what he sees there, with water around and above to furnish the "atmosphere" and fishes swimming overhead. He solves the mechanical problem by wearing a diving helmet and using waterproof canvas and brushes soaked in oil and weighted with lead. He finds that he can work comfortably at a depth of about forty feet, and can see as far as 300 feet in clear water.

The results are remarkable. The painter is able to present a new world, suggesting Jules Verne's descriptions, and based on actual observation of submarine forms and colors, rich with life that is strange to mankind.
His example will doubtless find many followers.

PASSPORTS.

American Bankers' Association urges Uncle Sam to negotiate with foreign governments to eliminate the passport system. Then you could travel freely from one country to another.

No chance. The passport in Europe is more a police than a tourist device. We might profit by the German system, making every new arrival in a town report to police headquarters within 24 hours to get his "papers"
o. k'd. Fugitives would be more readily traced, even in a large country.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Well, statistics show soft-drink drinking is declining, maybe because people are learning to do without chasers.

Man was beating his wife in Chicago. She pushed him off the porch three floors up. He fell hard for her.

Idle rumors cause a lot of trouble and so do idle roomers.

What we can't see is how a one-armed man gets married, unless he learns to steer an auto with his knees.

Duquoin (Ill.) couple got married. Courted 25 years. Imagine shaving every day for 25 years.

Charles Dickens' old home has been made into a girl's school, where they may play the Dickens.

St. Louis man, alarmed because his wife couldn't talk, called the doctor. She was drunk. It's expensive, but you might try it.

A woman in hand is worth two in a tantrum.

Had a $500,000 fire in Scranton, Pa., home of correspondence schools but none burned, damn it.

South Africa's diamond output is over two million karats yearly. But that isn't so much.
We mine more coal than that.

South Dakota man claims he has a razor that has been used 65 years, but we don't know how often.

Even if it did take her a long time to do it, a St. Louis woman has been going to Sunday school 90 years.

One overlooked blessing of those who get out for Sunday school is the trip makes them hungry for Sunday dinner.

At Atlantic City a sea gull dropped a clam on a policeman's head. It wasn't a traffic cop, because it hurt him.

Bryan says the Democrats will win next time, but they are not letting even this discourage them.

Taxes may be reduced in Germany. That's natural. They can't raise them because the people can't.

Nothing increases your confidence in the general order of things like having a banker lend you money.

An American bandit was caught in Mexico, showing it is safer to stay in your own territory.

Woman was caught running a still in an Ohio town. Men are getting to be bigger loafers every day.

The sad thing about having a husband is he always wants his wife to quit being so foolish.

"I should think he would be ashamed of himself," said Old Mother Hubbard "A shaggy old fellow is Towelhead, I must say. They never comb their hair."
"I'm not sure that it isn't another scare-crow!" remarked the Old Man
All Clotted in Leather to Solomon Grundy. "Why I know a scare-crow once who was just eaten up by the farm creatures. He stood near a fence and every time Ned Nag or Charlie Colt came near the fence, they chewed up his arm or his head.
Every day he had to be fixed up all over again, and finally Farmer Brown had to shake pepper all over him to teach those horses a lesson."
"No Towelhead isn't a scare-crow," said the Riddle Lady.

"I should think he would be ashamed of himself," said Old Mother Hubbard. "Letting chickens roost in his hair! It's the most untidy thing I ever heard of."
"They even make nests in his hair," laughed the Riddle Lady, "and lay eggs in them."
"The idea!" said Mother Hubbard
"The idea!" exclaimed the Old Shes Woman.

"Nesta! Eggs!"
"And kittens!" added Mrs. Spratt.
"Personally I dislike cats. I was always glad that one cat jumped over the moon!"
"I know the answer," said Mrs.
John. "I've been thinking and thinking. 'It's a hay stack.'"
"Why, of course," said everybody.
"How easy!"
"It's always easy when you know how," laughed the Riddle Lady.

Puppy Love

TWO little youngsters, a lass and a lad, out for a walk, hand in hand.
Each with expression that indicates glad, and how plainly we all understand.

The wee little boy, maybe five years or more, has the feeling he's really a man, escorting the neighbor-girl down to the store, so's to help her 'jest' all that he can.

He watches outside as she enters the place.
It's in kid-days that such things occur. And then she comes out with a smile on her face as he carries her bundles for her.
They slowly walk home and they talk about school, and she asks him what class he is in. "Why, I'm in the first grade," he will boast, as a rule, and thus will their friendship begin.

She's just a new neighbor, this fair little lass, and she lives just two houses above her little boy friend, so it cometh to pass that she's moved into real puppy love.

LEGION TEAM
IN FINE SHAPE
FOR LAST GAME
Every Man Ready for Hard Battle With Elgin Bunch

None of the members of the Dixon Legion football squad sustained serious injuries in Sunday's game at Aurora, and Coach Risley is planning on having every one of his men groomed and in first class form to meet the Elgin Legion squad on Brown's field Thanksgiving afternoon. This game will mark the close of the 1924 football season in Dixon as well as the disbanding of the team for the year.

Dixon football fans have never had a stronger and better organization in football than was assembled this season. The sudden absence of Dee materially weakened the squad as the center position for a time, but Whitcombe has developed into a good center and works well in this position. With the close of the season at hand for many independent teams, the Dixon management is swamped with starting offers from many players who are looking for an opportunity to play a few more games before the season closes.

Sullivan, the back field flash, who made things interesting for Aurora last Sunday will be on hand to close the season. Coach "Butch" Whipple has his team in the best of shape for the battle and expects to take Dixon into camp for the final tilt of the year.

Protest Keeping Beaten Fighters in Tournament

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Nov. 25.—Managers of Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., Danny Kramer of Philadelphia and Jose Lombardo of Panama, credited with victories in the opening round of the featherweight tournament to determine the ownership vacated by Johnny Dundee, will appear before the state athletic commission today to protest against retaining two of the apparently eliminated contenders in the tournament.

During the bouts last week, announcer Joe Humphreys stated that five instead of three, boxers would appear in the semi-finals which indicated that the two alternates, Babe Herman and Billy Befoe, would have a chance at the title. Later it developed that Bobby Garcia of Cambridge, Md., and Mike Dundee of Rock Island, Illinois, had so impressed the members of the commission even in defeat that they would be given another chance.

Yesterday the commission informed the press that no final decision had been made and that the matter would be thoroughly threshed out at today's session.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The football championship of the Sixth Army Corps Area will be decided in the meeting at the new civic stadium here Thursday of teams representing Fort Sheridan, Illinois, and Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo. Washington Not Anxious to Part With Johnson

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 25.—Walter Johnson, pitching mainstay of the World's Champion Senators, will be rewarded for his long service to the club by his release only if he is able to Jose some ownership deal with another club that will fit in with his desire to settle down permanently with his family in the West.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, made plain this position of the management last night in scouting reports of an effort to interest Johnson in the St. Paul club of the American Association following the collapse of his deal for the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League. Griffith said a deal with the former club would not fall within the intent of his agreement with the pitcher for his release.

Detroit, Michigan. — "Your little book left at my door was my best doctor. I read it, then said to my husband, 'Please go and get me some Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I want to take it.' The first month I took three bottles of Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. If you only knew how much better I feel! Now when my friends say they are sick I tell them to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. I give the little book and your medicines the best of thanks." — Mrs. HAME-RINK, 3765 25th Street, Detroit, Mich.

In newspapers and booklets we are constantly publishing letters from women, who explain how they were helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

These letters should guide you. If you are troubled with pains and nervousness, or any feminine disorder, bear in mind that the Vegetable Compound has helped other women and should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Team Called One of Best
Despite Its Minn.
Defeat

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 25.—The smoke of battle had lifted today in the Western Conference and the gridiron warriors at their respective bivouacs to name leaders and to discuss next year's prospects.

The Chicago Maroons, "unofficial" title holders by reason of having suffered no defeat, named Fred Henderson to captain the 1925 eleven and bade farewell to eleven members of the squad who will be graduated before next season. Twenty three of the Stagmen were awarded the major "C".

Harold "Red" Grange, last year all-American half back and this year's main stay of the Illinois eleven, was named to head his mates in the 1925 contests. Speakers at the banquet at which the election was announced pronounced the Illini team as one of the greatest in the school's football history despite the fact that it was put out of championship running by Minnesota. Illinois varsity letters were awarded to eighteen first string men.

Indiana will be led next year by Captain Larry Marks, a junior. Coach Bill Ingram announced he would recommend that "I" be awarded to twelve men.

The Wisconsin Badgers, for the first time in years, selected a married man as leader, in Steve Polaski, end. Coach Spaulding of the Minnesota Gophers recommended that the "M" be awarded 22 men. A captain will be elected on Dec. 3.

McTangle

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN
PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT
COTT CONTINUED

I have been worrying Leslie, dear, about you getting settled in our new home. Carpenters and painters are always a strain on one's nerves and just now you want as much peace and quiet as possible.

Sweetheart, we are going to call that baby Leslie. I know you think I am an unimaginative person and at times but I have built many air-castles since I knew that baby was coming to us.

Leslie, darling, no man in the world ever had a wife like mine. I do not think any other woman in the world could live with me, but I love you, love you with every ounce of my body and every thought of my soul. I want you to realize this for I know my shortcomings perhaps better than anyone else knows them. I know I probably will make you unhappy many times in the future with my thoughtlessness, but I want you to understand that selfish and thoughtless and self-centered as I am I love you as much as I am capable of loving anyone.

Please, please, wife of mine, do not forget that I do realize perfectly that all the great things that have come to me the last few years have come to me through you. I cannot talk of it to anyone, least of all to you, but deep in my heart I know that without you and your ever-redeeming love I would be nothing.

There, Leslie dear, I have gotten it out of my system and I feel better. I wish I could say to you always all the love that I have in my heart, but I can not.

This is the first letter I have written with my own hand for a long time, but Leslie dear, I wanted to tell you all that you are to me and I could not let any other person know the blessed truth.

Darling mine, I hope you will be as forgiving in the future as you have been in the past for otherwise I am afraid that I will be a very unhappy man. It is only forgiving wives that make marriage a success. In my heart I know this is true, for no one has ever needed forgiveness more than I.

No, dear, I am not asking you to forgive me anything yet and at the present moment I have every intention of being very good in the future, but I am quick-tempered, as you know, suspicious and jealous—ther, I guess I've enumerated all my worst faults where you are concerned.

I have a telegram from Syd. He will not be here until the last of the week. I am rather sorry because you know I don't like my own society at all, and with Mrs. Atherton going away tomorrow I shall be right lonely.

Presumably I shall expect the Burkes, Ruth has already asked me to dinner, and I shall expect I shall have to dine with mother soon and then, of course, I am in for all sorts of complaints. Why is it, dear, that old people get settled into a rut and make themselves so unhappy when they might be just the opposite. You and I won't be that way, will we? We'll be Darby and Joan with our children and grandchildren around us. It is a pleasant thought but truly I never dreamed that it would come to me.

Always your husband,
JACK.

Thanksgiving—
Thursday Next!

This Store will be closed on Thanksgiving Day as usual.

It is fitting that a day should be set aside each year to give thanks to the Omnipotent for the blessings received.

It is a time-honored custom, observed on the last Thursday in November since 1863 when President Lincoln so declared by proclamation.

It was first observed in America when in 1621 the Plymouth Pilgrims devoted the day to an acknowledgment of their first harvest.

LAYMEN OF M. E. CHURCH AT AMBOY ENJOYED BANQUET

Fourth Annual Banquet Was Very Happy in Every Respect

Amboy—William Wieser made a business trip to Chicago Wednesday. The M. E. Guild will have a scramble dinner in the church parlors Wednesday, Nov. 26. Each member is requested to bring her own dishes, sandwiches and one dish of food.

Fred Vaughan, Jr., of Oregon spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Vaughan.

F. B. McCrory spent a couple of days last week in Chicago on business.

Mrs. George Tholhammer and sons Arnold and George spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wenz in Aurora.

Mrs. Amanda Gipson is visiting her daughter Mrs. Henry Klein in Ottawa.

Mrs. William Weisz spent a couple of days with her mother, Mrs. A. J. Myers of Dixon.

Dean Leake, who is attending Brown's business college in Sterling spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Ella Leake.

The M. E. Missionary Society will meet at 2 o'clock, Nov. 24 at the home of Mrs. Charles Buckingham. Cars will be at the church at 1:30 o'clock.

The football game here Saturday between Sandwich and Amboy resulted in a score of 16 to 2 in the former's favor. Amboy's men played hard and should not feel discouraged.

The last game Amboy will play will be at Prophetstown, Thursday, Nov. 27. Amboy beat Prophetstown on the local field 19 to 0 last Saturday. An equally good game is expected Thursday.

A book review of Ralph Connor's famous work, "The Sky Pilot" will be given by Rev. M. D. Bayly at the Methodist church next Sunday evening.

The fourth annual Laymen's banquet of the Methodist church featuring an excellent roast chicken dinner was held in the church parlors, Thursday evening, Nov. 20 and even surpassed many of the fine records of past years. The menu was outlined, the food prepared and served by the men. The kitchen committee headed by J. E. Haas and Dr. W. L. Berryman proved to be past masters in the culinary art. The dining room committee in charge of C. B. Miller, R. J. Blumstein and Joe Wittenauer decorated the room and tables and handled the serving in masterly style.

These committees aided by twenty-five business and professional men served 185 plates during the banquet hour.

The subsequent program was of local talent and from within the church membership. Rev. M. D. Bayly acted as toastmaster. Herbert G. Conner, one of Amboy's most talented men, proposed the toast "To the Ladies." The response was given by Mrs. Carl Sartorius. Ray Price responded to the toast "The General Program of the Local Church" when he stressed the necessity of a men's brotherhood and a men's program in keeping with the aim and purpose of the church. C. B. Miller reinforced these remarks by a short impromptu speech. The response to "The Correlation of the Church and Public School Program" was given by Miss M. M. Manley, who for many years was the principle of our high school. She outlined the correlated work now in vogue in Michigan and expressed her confidence in the fine results that should logically follow.

After a social hour the guests were treated to a radio concert by Mr. S. M. Goode.

FIRST CAFETERIA (Economic Eat.)

The above is the name of Dixon's latest restaurant. It is located at 216 Peoria avenue, just south of the Family Theatre. It is owned, and will be operated by the undersigned, beginning on Friday, Nov. 25, at 10:30 a. m. It is unpretentious in its appearance and in its equipment and also in its management and conduct.

We make no pretensions to elaboration; indeed, economy is our watchword; but it is not economy at the expense of quality, but rather, quality plus economy. You come to the service counter, get what you want, pay for what you get and wait on yourself. We thus dispense with the expense of waiters and what we save by so doing we will put into the quality of our goods, or else, we will take it from our prices.

In using the cafeteria system we shall be able to serve our patrons very rapidly so that, in most cases, you can have immediate service.

OUR POLICY—It is not our intention, at present, at least to open for breakfast; we will open at 10:30 a. m., and continue open until a late hour, midnight perhaps. If occasion demands, we will not open on the Lord's Day, unless we have patrons who depend upon us for all their meals.

Tobacco in any form will not be handled by us.

We ask all our old friends, and they are many, to come and see us, also, as many new ones as care to make our acquaintance. We will be courteous to you whether we sell you anything or not.

Very cordially,

H. B. GREEN,
Proprietor First Cafeteria, Dixon, Ill.

Drain Says Legion is Better Understood Now

By Associated Press Service

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 25.—The American Legion is better understood today in the life of the nation than it has ever been before. The ex-service men who participated in the World War are just now really "finding themselves" and the same thing is true of their organization," James A. Drain, national commander of the American Legion told the group that greeted him when he passed through Fort Worth Monday morning.

Commander Drain was enroute from El Paso where he addressed the American Federation of Labor to Muskogee, Okla., where he will inspect the William Green Memorial Hospital.

Prophetstown-Morrison Bus Line Discontinued

Prophetstown, Ill.—Four weeks ago a motorbus company inaugurated a schedule for trips between Morrison and Prophetstown. On Saturday the company discontinued the service claiming the travel between the two cities was not sufficient to warrant the expense.

UNUSUAL HARMONY MARKS MEETINGS LABOR FEDERATION

Final Adjournment May be Reached by A. F. of L. Today

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 25.—(By The Associated Press)—Delegates to the 45th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, claimed for the gathering today of a new record in convention harmony.

With all important business disposed of, the convention today still had its first roll call ahead of it. Only one division was requested in the fifteen sessions ending last night and that was on a minor jurisdictional question. A showing of hands disposed of it.

Because of the harmony of the proceedings, the convention has been able to dispose of its business in record time.

Final adjournment probably will be taken this afternoon after election of officers and the selection of the 1925 meeting place.

Declaring again its opposition to relations between the United States and Russia, the convention yesterday approved a report of the committee resolution in favor of trade agreements with the Soviet regime.

To Fight Injunction

The federation will continue its effort to curb the use of the injunction in labor disputes under a policy endorsed in the committee report.

The political activity of the federation will continue along lines of strict non-partisanism, the convention decided in rejecting yesterday two resolutions for participation in a new political party.

Authority for a conference of international officers to consider the initiation of a national labor-owned insurance enterprise was approved.

A resolution under which 51 civilian aides to the secretary of war would have been assigned from the ranks of the federation's membership to assist in recruiting young men to the citizens military training camps, was referred to the executive council for action.

The executive council was also directed to renew its appeal to Gov. Richardson of California for a pardon for Thomas J. Mooney and to urge a new trial for N. Sacco and B. Vanzetti, convicted of murder in Massachusetts, should an investigation establish prejudicial action by the court in the original trial.

DEDICATION OF FLAG POLE WAS A HAPPY EVENT

Patriotism Theme of Address at Nachusa Orphanage

Impressive dedicatory ceremonies were conducted at the Nachusa Orphanage Sunday afternoon when the new flag pole was formally dedicated by Horace F. Ott Post No. 545 Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Department Patriotic Inspector Fred Alai of Sterling delivered the address in which he sought to point out the beauties and benefits to be derived from loyal, patriotic American citizenship, love of country and the flag.

Rev. Stahl followed with a few well chosen words of thanks in which he states that its presence would doubtless assist him greatly in the teaching of those lessons of patriotism that are dear to the heart of every loyal American.

Rev. Hulise of Franklin Grove followed with prayer after which commander Goodwin by authority of the Grand Encampment and in behalf of Horace F. Ott Post No. 545 Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, made the formal dedication. All patriotic orders were represented, there being some 200 people present from Dixon, Sterling, Nachusa and Franklin Grove.

Gov. Small Added His Appeal for Thanksgiving

By Associated Press Service

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—Calling upon citizens to give thanks in their churches and homes, Governor Len Small today issued his annual Thanksgiving proclamation.

"As the year of 1924 nears its close," the proclamation said, "a survey of conditions in the United States, and especially in the state of Illinois, must give us renewed confidence in the future. Abundant crops have been garnered by our people, there is a marked improvement in industrial and commercial lines, and our people are looking forward with trust and confidence to a happy and prosperous year."

Rockford Men Took Own Life While Despondent

Rockford—Despondency over failure to gain a reconciliation with his wife and over his inability to give up liquor, are believed to have been the reasons for Thomas Tilger, age 44, ending his life at noon Monday by bringing the contents of a 16 gauge shotgun into his heart in a hallway adjoining the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wines.

Mr. and Mrs. Tilger are said to have separated after a quarrel six years ago because of his frequent spells of intoxication, she going to the home of relatives at Moberly, Mo.

The Island of Oahu, one of the Hawaiian Islands, is without signboards.

Between 500 and 1000 lepers are believed to be at large in the United States.

MULE SEES SUN

Mahanoy City, Pa.—"Alaska" a brown mule, was born in a coal mine here and had never seen the light of day until a recent flood in the mine drove him to the surface. It required considerable force to induce him to enter the conveyor that carried him from his dungeon home.

The blight has seriously damaged the European potato crop in recent years.

Children make constipation a habit—relieve them with Kellogg's Bran Children punish themselves terribly by ignoring nature's demands. They bring constipation upon themselves. They invite the many other diseases which can be traced to constipation. Immediate steps should be taken to rid them and keep them free from this disease.

It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective. That's what Kellogg's is—ALL bran. That is why doctors everywhere recommend Kellogg's. That is why Kellogg's Bran carries a money-back guarantee to bring permanent relief, if eaten regularly, in the most chronic cases of constipation. That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, has brought glorious, glowing health to thousands—because it is ALL bran.

No matter how long one has suffered with constipation, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief IF EATEN EVERY DAY—at least two tablespoons—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's Bran is delicious. It has a crisp, nut-like flavor that simply delights the taste. It is a wonderful surprise if one has been used to ordinary, unpalatable brans.

There are many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Look for the recipes on every package and try it in muffins, bread, griddle cakes, etc.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek and is sold by grocers everywhere. It is served by the leading hotels and clubs.

PEDESTRIAN'S FRIEND

Manchester, England—Pedestrians of Manchester have found a champion in their warfare against careless motorists. A mysterious, black-capped man has appeared at intervals on the side of the streets of the city at night, firing a revolver at the headlights of speeding automobiles. His accuracy is said to be uncanny.

—Housewives—particular—we have a supply of nice white paper for the pantry shelves and bureau drawers on hand for the fall house cleaning.

Lovebirds, once popular for "fortune telling" in England, are becoming scarce.

Is White Right?

Simplicity underlies all intelligent effort. We rack our wits to devise the most complicated way to do a thing, yet wasn't it Mr. Dooley who declared, with childlike candor, that we would all be better off if the doctors opened more windows and fewer patients? What, indeed, could be simpler? Similarly, when a hue-and-cry was raised in London that men's Tuxedo dress had become too stodgy and stereotyped, somebody introduced the white waistcoat, the simplest way to brighten up a dark subject.

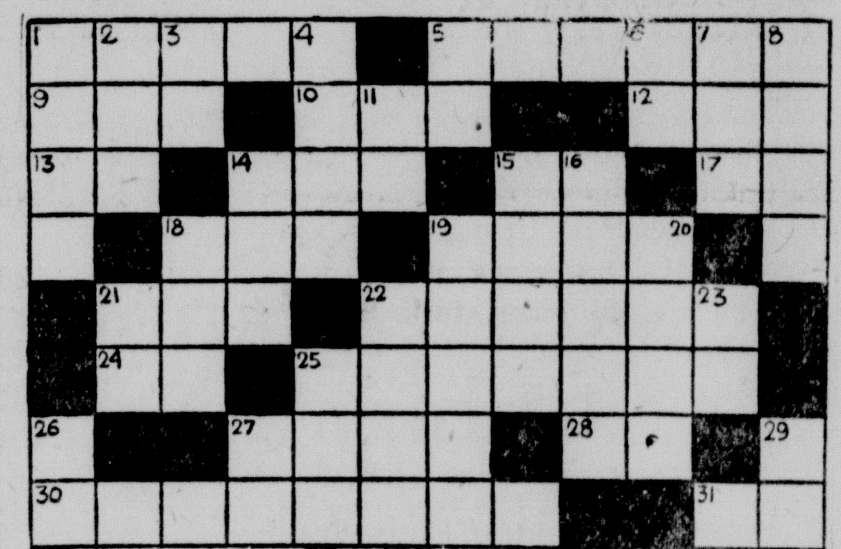

Please don't misunderstand. The white waistcoat has not shouldered aside the black waistcoat, which is as correct as ever and, probably, always will be. You may, however, wear white if you prefer it to black, as some of us do, for no other reason than that it is more cheerful and that the Prince of Wales and his set have sponsored it. However, while your Tuxedo waistcoat may be white, your tie remains black. This rule is unbending.

Just how the white waistcoat and its smart accessories look is shown here. The waistcoat is crisp white linen, cotton or pique having graduated U-shaped lapels; 4 buttons closely grouped, and blunt bottom corners. Observe the waists in-curve over the hips and the deeply cut away scyes (armholes). The shirt may have the plain or the pleated bosom, well starched. One or two studs are proper. The collar is the bold-tab wing and the black tie, worn over or under the tabs, is the batwing or butterfly effect having a snug knot and fan-shaped ends.

The white Tuxedo waistcoat is a metropolitan fashion, rather than a general one. You do not have to adopt it, if you do not fancy it or if you think that it renders you overly conspicuous. It is also procurable in the short, double-breasted effect with a squared-off front. Always wear the single-breasted waistcoat under the double-breasted Tuxedo jacket. With the single-breasted jacket either the single or the double-breasted waistcoat is allowable. As concerns the contour of the lapels, they may be U-shaped, V-shaped or oval-shaped at the whim of the wearer. Like all coats, the Tuxedo jacket looks smarter if it is worn buttoned.

II—THE YELLOW BAND

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When Corrigan, stalwart proprietor of the Orange-Patch estate in Horner visits the bungalow of his neighbor, Jacobson, he finds a native girl rolling cigarettes that have a faint yellow band at one end. Leaving the bungalow, he discovers Jacobson's coolies setting over the fence posts that separate the two estates. He comes upon Jacobson and knocks him down in a quarrel.

Previously he has warned Jacobson that a man who styles himself "Zariman the Terrible" has landed on the island and has worked up the native tribes into a fanatical frenzy against the white settlers. Now Corrigan resolves to put his trouble with Jacobson behind him and have the dispute over the barrier straightened out once and for all.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

He set out on foot, a tall Pathan walking in front with a swinging lamp, and took the path which led through waving coco palms to the flooded padi fields beyond. A cool breeze blew steadily across the open lands and the starlit heavens were flecked with long, luminous clouds. For the first half hour not a soul passed them. It was when they swung on to a jungle track and the rays of the hurricane lamp shone more brightly in the dense blackness where the interwoven branches obscured the moon, that the atmosphere seemed charged with electricity. The watchman sensed it, for he slackened his pace until Corrigan had almost come up to him. Strange noises came from the undergrowth and once a tall shadowy form appeared on the path before them, vanishing like a ghost at their approach. From the far distance floated the deep, ceaseless reverberation of native gongs.

There was something about that Corrigan did not understand. As they left the forest and felt the soft, springy turf beneath their feet, in the clearing where Browning's tall building lay outlined a score of yards in front, Corrigan came suddenly to a halt and slipped his fingers over the magazine of his automatic.

A group of five or six dark figures broke from a clump of bushes and scattered like rabbits for the cover of the virgin forest. One of these forms, taken completely by surprise, plunged in panic between Corrigan and the Pathan with the lamp. Corrigan, his extended hand missing the man by inches, saw that he was tall and of unusual girth; his skin shone in the lamp light as if it had been greased, and he wore only a loin-cloth. At his belt swung something round and bulky and a long flapping object which the planter knew was a sword in a bamboo sheath.

As Corrigan stood, staring after him, gripped by a queer sense of dawning fear, he felt a drop of moisture on his cheek. He touched it with his finger. It was sticky and warm. He called out for the lamp. As the watchman held the light toward him, he recoiled in horror. His tunic and breeches were splattered with drops of blood!

The Pathan remained, like a bronze statue, staring at the phenomenon with bulging eyes. Corrigan broke the spell.

"Push on," he commanded, as if it were a matter of everyday occurrence.

He left the man at the foot of the steep flight of wooden steps, and went up them leisurely, lighting the tobacco in the bottom of his pipe. The veranda was deserted, but an oil lamp swung from a beam overhead. He tapped with his stick on the door of Browning's living room, and entered without waiting for an answer.

The room was stale with the smell of tobacco smoke and of a strange persistent odor, sickly and sweet. Di-

"Where now, Tuz?" he asked. "Home," replied the planter.

It was toward sundown that Fellowes and White, followed by coolies carrying their barung suspended in a sort of hammock swung from a stout bamboo pole, arrived at Corrigan's bungalow.

"Come in," shouted the big man from his long chair. "And get them to push your stuff in the back."

The newcomers took the chairs one on either side of the table and discarded their sun helmets. Fellowes, the first assistant, a keen, sparer hatchet-faced individual, broke the silence.

"What's in the wind?" he demanded, with that lack of reference to the difference of their respective positions that Corrigan preferred.

Corrigan grinned. "Zariman the Terrible and his merry men," he said calmly. "I've decided to concentrate, that's all. You heard about poor Browning, of course?"

"Yes," put in White, a somewhat stout youth with rimless glasses.

"That's about the last thing poor Browning issued," said Corrigan. "It's pretty concise, don't you think? Any man who lives alone in these parts runs mighty big risks. I've taken risks ever since I was born, but I never take unreasonable ones. You follow me, don't you?"

Both men nodded. Corrigan got up from his chair and walked to the veranda rail.

"I say, you fellows," he said, "just look at that sunset. If you could manage to get that on to paper, there's not a man alive'd believe you."

"Marvelous!" agreed Fellowes, moving round in his chair.

"Makes one feel thirsty," announced White.

"Touch the bell," said Corrigan. "I'm afraid I shall never reform you, my boy. There's not an atom of art in your soul!"

The boy shuffled in and presently Corrigan stood between the other two, a glass in his hand.

"I guess you're wondering just how much I know beyond what's written on that paper, and how I happen to know it. I'm going to enlighten you as much as I can. I've always had a peculiar habit of pushing in at awkward moments. It's a disease with me. I had a row with our Hebrew friend over the way yesterday, and decided to tell the D. O. all about it. A rational man would have left it till daylight; I strolled over to Putatan directly after mackin."

"Corrigan's way!" murmured White, watching the bubbles rising in his glass.

"Yes, Corrigan's way. You'll never see the lalang growing between my trees. I arrived a matter of minutes too late to help Browning, but in heaps of time to learn all there was to know concerning how he died. He raised one finger to emphasize the importance of his next statement. Browning was dragged before Zariman's head-hunters looked in." His voice broke. "He didn't have a dog's chance, but—" He brought his fist down on the table, sending a glass humming like a tuning fork—"I'm going to get that swine who dragged him, and, by Heaven! I'll make him pay for it, even if I have to go down to Hell to find him!"

(To Be Continued)

"One of my mandora got it when he went down for the nail. Big thick, what?"

Fellowes leaned forward. "But you don't think—" he began, helping himself to a cigarette from a tin box.

"I do, old son," Corrigan assured him. "There's something in my bones that tells me that he'll try a cut at us next. That's just why I've brought you here."

"I see," mused the irrepressible White. "United we stand, sort of thing. You'll be gratified to hear I've brought my Webley. It's got a device of a kick-up to the right, but I can nail a bottle at twenty yards."

"I'm glad of that," laughed Corrigan, "because we're not out for any revolver practice at the moment. I don't want to discourage them from paying us a visit."

"You think we're being watched, then?" demanded Fellowes.

The proprietor drew a folded paper from his pocket and handed it across the table. The first assistant perused it. White reading over his shoulder.

Fellowes whistled. "That's about the last thing poor Browning issued," said Corrigan. "It's pretty concise, don't you think? Any man who lives alone in these parts runs mighty big risks. I've taken risks ever since I was born, but I never take unreasonable ones. You follow me, don't you?"

I'll make him pay for it, even if I have to go down to Hell to find him!"

In the grim silence that followed, Fellowes gripped Corrigan's hand impulsively.

White clutched the table with both hands, his eyes, strangely magnified by the glasses he wore, sparkling in the last fleeting half-light before the fall of darkness.

"I'm with you, every time!" he blurted out with enthusiasm.

Night fell like a spangled curtain of black velvet. The boy crept in and lit the swinging lamp, rolling up the sun blinds.

Rochelle—Saturday, November 22 was "Calf Club Day" in Rochelle. Twenty calves were entered by boys and girls in the vicinity of Rochelle and Creston in competition for the premiums to be awarded on that day. The calves have been well fitted for the show and were placed on exhibition at the Caley livery barn on Main street. There they were judged by L. O. Wase, of Morrison, who had been selected by the livestock extension specialist of the University of Illinois. The entire lot of calves were sold at auction in the afternoon by Auctioneer Charles E. Kepner, following a parade through the business streets of Rochelle, led by the Rochelle band. There were 3 spectators and 3 merden Angus calves in the parade. Awards were made to the calf club members on the basis of these points: the best calf, the greatest amount of gain in weight, and the cheapest cost of gain. This was an educational affair not only for the club members but for all who witnessed it. Interest in the club exhibit and sale ran high and it was a big day at Rochelle on Saturday, November 22. Old-Time Cough Remedy—Pine Tar and Honey—Still Best

According to specialists, there is really nothing better or quicker-acting for coughs, croup, colds, bronchitis, spasmodic croup and throat irritation than good old pine tar and honey. No matter whether the cough is dry and tight, or loose with much mucus, the pine tar quickly aids in the removal of the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing, also relieves soreness, while the honey both soothes irritation and gives a pleasant taste.

The original compound, which has been used in thousands of families for many years, is Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It has had many imitations, but still remains the best, as it is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in giving quick relief. It contains absolutely no narcotics or harmful drugs, so can be given to young and old alike. If you want the best, be sure you get the original Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey and no other. Only 25c. at any good druggists.
